

Runaway Slide and Layla Zoe at Bourbon Street West May 2010

Tuesday, 18 May 2010

It's been a while since we last performed on stage so we were pretty excited about this show.

Not to mention that the club that we were at, Bourbon Street West, is one of the best places for sound, lights, a large stage and lots of blues fans.

The only thing that made us a little nervous was that a Stanley Cup Eastern Conference Finals hockey game was on at the same time as our performance. Since our home team, the Montreal Canadiens, are in the semi-finals we were concerned that fans would want to see the game instead of our performance. To our surprise the audience was into our music as much as any other time we've performed there.

We played most of our originals mixed in with some blues standards. We also introduced one of our new songs called "Karma." We received a lot of positive feedback on this song.

On this night we opened for Layla Zoe. Unfortunately, we had not heard of Layla before this show. We definitely recommend that you take a listen to her music. She is a fantastic singer and a super friendly person. Head on over to her website at <http://www.layla.ca/> to learn more about her.

Justin, Adam and Matthew

<http://www.runawayslide.com/>

www.myspace.com/runawayslide

www.youtube.com/runawayslide

www.reverbnation.com/runawayslide

www.twitter.com/runawayslide